

Learning to research in higher education

Associate Professor Tony Harland
University of Otago

This workshop is designed for academics new to the study of higher education. It will examine the teacher as researcher, the transition from scholarly work to studies of international significance and the dominant research paradigms in the field. At the end of the workshop participants should have a better understanding of higher education research and what they need to be thinking about as they plan and execute their next study.